(a) The Election Commission is recognized as an independent Student Body, external to the Parliament.

(b) The Election Commission is supreme in all matters relating to the conduct of elections, subject to the provisions of this Charter, and no person or entity shall interfere in its operations.

ARTICLE II

GENERAL ELECTIONS

Section 1. Method and Eligibility.

(a) General Elections to the Parliament shall be conducted by the Election Commission by secret ballot, using the ranked-choice electoral method known as the Single Transferable Vote.

(b) Candidates for a General Election must be Constituents as defined in Part IX, Article I.

(c) A Constituent shall be eligible to contest a General Election provided that, at the time of nomination, they are not barred by the Institute from holding a Position of Responsibility, and they are not a member of the Election Commission.

Section 2. Seats.

(a) The overall strength of the Parliament shall be determined at a ratio of one elected representative for every fifty Constituents in the student population. The number of seats shall be rounded up.

(b) No seat shall be filled without an election. If the number of candidates is insufficient to fill all seats at a General Election, the remaining seats shall remain vacant upon the conclusion of that election.

(c) If fewer than one-half of the Constituents in a particular Constituency vote in the General Election, the number of seats for that

Constituency shall be reduced as per the formula $n' = \max(\lfloor 2nx \rfloor, 1)$, where n' is the final number of seats, n is the original number of seats, x is the proportion of Constituents in that Constituency who voted in the General Election, expressed as a decimal, $\max(a, b)$ returns the greater of a and b, and $\lfloor k \rfloor$ denotes the greatest integer less than or equal to k.

Section 3. Reservation.

(a) In every Constituency, a minimum of one-fourth of its final number of seats is reserved for women and gender-diverse Constituents (as per their Institute-registered gender), to ensure equitable representation. This number is rounded up to the nearest whole seat, except in a single-seat Constituency, which reserves no seat. If the number of eligible candidates is less than the number of reserved seats, the remainder of the reserved seats shall remain vacant.

(b) The reservation takes effect only when the number of eligible candidates who win seats on the ordinary vote count is fewer than the number of reserved seats. If eligible candidates already win at least that many seats on their own, the reservation has no effect and no seats are set aside or reassigned. When the reservation takes effect, the lowest-ranked non-eligible winners are replaced by the highest-ranked non-elected eligible candidates, until all reserved seats are filled or no further eligible candidates remain.

ARTICLE III
ELECTIONS FOR GENERAL SECRETARY AND SPEAKER

Section 1. Conduct and Timelines.

(a) Internal elections for the offices of General Secretary and Speaker shall be conducted by the Election Commission from amongst the elected Members of Parliament.

(d) The option of voting for "None of the above" shall be provided.

(e) These elections shall be concluded within fifteen days of the announcement of the results of the General Election.

Section 2. Failure to Elect.

(a) A Leadership Election shall be deemed to have failed to produce a General Secretary or a Speaker if, for that position, no candidate stands for election, or the quorum under Part III, Article III, Section 1 is not met.

(b) When a Leadership Election fails to produce a General Secretary or a Speaker within the prescribed timeline, the Election Commission shall have seven days within which to conduct a fresh Leadership Election for the position or positions that remain unfilled. A position already filled shall not be re-contested.

(c) If this fresh election also fails to produce a General Secretary or a Speaker, the Parliament shall be deemed dissolved with immediate effect. (c) This process shall be concluded within fifteen days of the announcement of the results of the Election of the General Secretary and Speaker.

Section 2. Failure to Elect.

(b) Any Member of Parliament appointed to the Council may become a candidate for the position of Council Secretary by writing to the Speaker within a stipulated nomination period, which shall be reasonable and shall not exceed seven days. The Speaker must then communicate the names of the candidates to the Council at the end of that time period.

(a) A Member of Parliament or Nominated Member may resign from any Leadership Position as defined in Part II, Article V or from the Students' Parliament at any time by submitting written notice to the Speaker and General Secretary, with a copy provided to the Election Commission in the case of an elected Member. In the event of the resignation of the General Secretary or Speaker, the written notice shall be submitted to the Parliament, with a copy provided to the Election Commission.

In the event of the resignation of the General Secretary or the Speaker, the resignation is automatically accepted.

(e) A Member of Parliament who misses three consecutive office hours required of them under Part V, Article II, Section 1, or a Member of Parliament or Nominated Member who misses three consecutive Sessions of the Parliament or of their Council, without providing a valid and truthful reason in writing to the Speaker, shall be deemed to have automatically resigned with immediate effect. The Speaker shall communicate the determination and its reasons to the Member in writing, and the Member may raise a grievance against the determination under Part VI, Article VI, during which the Member's seat shall not be filled.

ARTICLE V
DISMISSAL

Section 1. Dismissal from the Position of General Secretary or Speaker.

(a) A motion for the dismissal of the General Secretary or Speaker may be introduced by no less than one-fourth of the Members of Parliament, in writing to the Election Commission, on the grounds of failure to uphold duties, misconduct, or violation of the Charter.

(b) A special Session must be called by the Election Commission for each and every such motion. The Election Commission shall provide notice to all Members of Parliament no less than two days before the Session at which the matter is to be heard. This Session must be held within seven days of the motion being raised.

(c) The Session must be attended by no less than one-half of the Members of Parliament.

(d) At that Session, and immediately before any vote is taken, the subject of the motion shall be entitled to exactly fifteen minutes of uninterrupted time to present their defence to the Parliament, followed by no less than fifteen minutes of discussion on the matter.

(e) The question of dismissal shall thereafter be put to a vote by secret ballot, conducted by the Election Commission. The vote succeeds if a simple majority of the Members present vote in favour of dismissal.

(f) If the vote succeeds, the Member holding the position is considered dismissed with immediate effect. The Election Commission must then hold a fresh Leadership Election as per the provisions of Part III, Article III.

Section 2. Dismissal from the Position of Council Secretary.

(a) A motion for the dismissal of the Council Secretary may be introduced by no less than one-fourth of the Members of the respective Council, in writing to the Speaker, on the grounds of failure to uphold duties, misconduct, or violation of the Charter.

The Speaker shall provide notice to all Members of the respective Council no less than two days before the Session at which the matter is to be heard. This Session must be held within seven days of the motion being raised.

(c) The Session must be attended by no less than one-half of the Members of the respective Council. Only voting Members of the respective Council shall vote on this motion.

(d) At that Session, and immediately before any vote is taken, the subject of the motion shall be entitled to no less than ten minutes of uninterrupted time to present their defence to the Council.

(e) The question of dismissal shall thereafter be put to a vote by secret ballot, conducted by the Speaker. The vote succeeds if a simple majority of the Members present vote in favour of dismissal.

Section 3. Dismissal of a Member of Parliament.

(a) In the event of disciplinary action wherein a sitting Member of Parliament or Nominated Member is barred from holding Positions of Responsibility, they shall be removed from their positions. The Director or Dean of Student Affairs must write to the Speaker informing them of the disciplinary action and requesting the immediate removal of the Member.

ARTICLE VI

GRIEVANCES

Section 1. Raising a Grievance.

(a) A grievance may be raised by any Member of Parliament or Nominated Member who

  (i) is dissatisfied with the conduct of proceedings in Parliament,

  (ii) is dissatisfied with a procedural decision, action, or omission of any body or leadership of Parliament, or

  (iii) believes that such conduct, decision, action, or omission is contrary to this Charter or to the rules of procedure.

(b) A grievance shall be raised in writing and shall state the matter complained of, the provision, rule, or principle alleged to be violated where applicable, and the redress sought.

Section 2. Escalation.

(a) A grievance shall first be submitted in writing to the General Secretary. The General Secretary shall respond in writing within seven days of receiving the grievance.

(b) If the General Secretary does not respond within seven days, or if the Member is dissatisfied with the response, the Member may bring the grievance before Parliament. Parliament shall consider the grievance at its next Session and shall record its decision in writing.

(c) If Parliament does not act in the next Session, or if the Member is dissatisfied with its decision, the Member may refer the grievance to the Dean of Student Affairs.

(d) Where a grievance concerns the conduct of the General Secretary, or a matter in which the General Secretary has a personal interest, it may be brought directly before Parliament.

ARTICLE VII
ACCOUNTABILITY

Section 1. Initiation.

(a) Five or more Constituents may initiate either of the following proceedings:

  (i) a No Confidence Motion – whether the Members of Parliament elected by a particular Constituency shall vacate their seats, or whether the Parliament as a whole shall be dissolved, and fresh elections held – or

  (ii) a Constituents' Motion – a direction to the Parliament to take, or to refrain from, a specified action.

(b) In this Article, the affected Constituents are the Constituents of the Constituency concerned, where a No Confidence Motion relates to the Members elected by a particular Constituency, and all Constituents in every other case. Those initiating a proceeding shall be drawn from the affected Constituents.

(c) Those initiating a proceeding shall deliver to the Election Commission a petition in writing, stating the grounds relied upon – including but not limited to the passage of a Resolution not supported by the affected Constituents, or non-compliance with the provisions of this Charter – and, in the case of a Constituents' Motion, the exact direction sought. A copy shall be delivered to the Parliament.

(d) The Election Commission shall announce the Motion to the affected Constituents and shall collect signatures over a window of twenty-one days from the announcement, verifying each against the roll of Constituents.

(e) A Constituent who has signed may withdraw their signature in writing at any time before the signature window closes.

(f) Within seven days of the close of the signature window, the Election Commission shall certify the petition if it carries the signatures of no less than one-tenth of the affected Constituents, or no less than one-fifth of them when the Motion relates to the Members elected by a particular Constituency. The Election Commission shall otherwise reject the petition. The Election Commission shall give notice of the certification or rejection in writing to the affected Constituents.

(g) No proceeding shall be initiated on substantially the same grounds within sixty days of a defeated Motion. The Election Commission shall determine any question as to whether the grounds are substantially the same.

Section 2. Limits.

(a) A Constituents' Motion may direct the Parliament to rescind a specified Resolution, to take or refrain from a specified action within the powers conferred upon it by Part V, Article I, to remove a Member, or to constitute a Panel with specified terms of reference.

(b) A Constituents' Motion shall not amend this Charter, direct the exercise of a power the Parliament does not possess, or direct any action contrary to this Charter, to the rules of the Institute, or to the law.

(c) If a proposed direction falls outside these limits, the Election Commission shall allow those initiating the proceeding seven days to amend it, and shall otherwise reject the petition, stating its reasons in writing.

Section 3. Proceedings.

(a) The Election Commission shall convene a meeting between the affected Constituents and the Parliament, at a reasonably convenient time within fifteen days of certifying the petition, and shall preside over it.

(b) Those initiating the proceeding shall have fifteen minutes of uninterrupted time in which to make their case, and the Parliament shall then have fifteen minutes of uninterrupted time in which to answer it. There shall follow no more than one hour of questions and discussion.

(c) The Election Commission shall publish a summary of the meeting before voting opens.

(d) Voting shall open no less than one day and no more than three days after the meeting concludes, shall remain open for no less than two days, and shall be conducted by the Election Commission by secret ballot among the affected Constituents.

(e) The question put upon the ballot for a No Confidence Motion shall be, and shall be only, whether the Members of Parliament elected by that Constituency shall vacate their seats, or whether the Parliament shall be dissolved, as the case may be, and fresh elections held. No other question shall appear upon that ballot.

(f) A Motion passes only when a majority of the votes cast are in favour, and the votes cast are no less than one-half of the affected Constituents. If either condition is not met, the question is defeated and the proceedings stand concluded.

Section 4. Effect.

(a) If a No Confidence Motion relating to the Parliament as a whole passes, the Parliament dissolves with immediate effect. The Chief Election Commissioner shall assume the office of Statutory Caretaker, holding custody of official communications but exercising no power, and the Election Commission shall conduct fresh General Elections, as per the provisions of Part III, Article II, within thirty days.

(b) If a No Confidence Motion relating to the Members elected by a particular Constituency passes, those Members vacate their seats with immediate effect, and the Election Commission shall conduct a fresh election in that Constituency within thirty days. The Parliament continues in office, and shall pass no Resolution of Amendment until the seats are filled.

(c) A Member who has vacated a seat under this Section, or whose seat has fallen vacant upon a dissolution, is eligible to contest the ensuing election. Resolutions passed before a dissolution or vacation remain in force unless separately rescinded.

(d) Where a Constituents' Motion passes, the Parliament shall comply with it and announce its compliance to the affected Constituents within the time stipulated by the Motion, or within thirty days where the Motion stipulates none. Failure to do so is grounds for a No Confidence Motion.

PART VII

Section 2. Other Applications.

managed by the General Secretary or the respective Council Secretaries.

ARTICLE II
THE ARCHIVE

Section 1. Maintenance.

(a) The Parliamentary Archive is the persistent, Institute-hosted digital repository of record maintained for the Parliament, and shall contain, including but not limited to, the summary of every Session, every Resolution raised, and all documents received or written by the Parliament, its Councils, or its Panels.

(b) The Archive shall be regularly updated by all Members of Parliament.

ARTICLE III
PROCEDURES

Section 1. Access.

(a) Correspondence sent from or received at an official account forms part of the record of the Parliament. The Parliament, and the Council to which the account is mapped, may inspect it at any time; and no Member shall delete or withhold correspondence so as to defeat that inspection.

Section 2. Correspondence.

(a) Before correspondence addressed to the Constituents generally, or to any list or body of them, is sent, the Member proposing to send it shall circulate its text to their Council or the Parliament and shall allow a reasonable opportunity for objection, being not less than two hours where circumstances permit. Corrections proposed by Members shall be made before the correspondence is sent.

(b) The preceding clause does not apply to a routine notice of fact, nor to correspondence addressed to a particular person or office where the substance of the reply is plain; but a Member may circulate any such correspondence under that clause if in doubt.

(c) If a message must be sent at once for the proper functioning of the Parliament, a Council, or the Institute, it may be sent without prior circulation. The Member who sends it shall thereafter share its text and the circumstances requiring its urgency with their Council or the Parliament, and with the General Secretary and the Speaker, within one day.

(d) Correspondence received at an official account of a Council shall be shared with the Members of the Council to which the account is mapped. In case it is received at an official account of the Parliament, it shall be shared with the Members of Parliament.

(e) If the correspondence contains personal or confidential information that may not be suitable to share with the Council or the Parliament, the Member receiving it shall share it with the General Secretary or the Speaker. If the General Secretary or the Speaker receives such correspondence, they shall share the number of such items of correspondence received, if not their contents.

Section 3. Attribution.

(a) Correspondence shall be sent in the name of the Parliament or of a Council, and shall not ordinarily state the name of the Member sending it. Correspondence is an act of the Parliament or of a Council, and not of the Member who sends it.

(b) A Member may state their name where it is necessary to transact the business in hand, or where the recipient requires it.

(c) No Member shall undersign correspondence with the title of a Member of Parliament, or of any Leadership Position they hold, unless the same is approved by the Parliament; and in the case of correspondence not circulated as per the provisions of Part VII, Article III, Section 2, the approval of the General Secretary, or of the Speaker, suffices.

PART VIII

(a) A question as to the interpretation of this Charter shall be decided by the Parliament and the Parliament may settle it by a Resolution of Procedure.
